

What Is The Ewe Revue 2?

They're baaack!

Throughout the summer of 2001, decorated fiberglass sheep could be found grazing the landscape of downtown Rochester. The Ewe Revue was a community-wide public art event celebrating the history, pride and spirit of the city. The sheep will be back for the Ewe Revue 2 throughout the summer of 2012; only this time, the sheep are going Hollywood! The Hollywood-themed sheep will be on display beginning May 4, 2012 and will remain on display through September 2012.

How Can Ewe Be a Part of the Flock?

Sheep Sponsorships are available at $2,300; downtown Rochester businesses receive a discounted rate of $1,800. This includes either one life-size fiberglass sheep or four "mini" sheep designed by the artist of your choice. You may submit your own design or select from the Ewe Revue 2 design portfolio (available for review by early 2012.) Each sponsorship includes an artist honorarium; $800 for the life-size sheep and $600 (total) for the minis. A sponsorship plaque will accompany each sheep, featuring your name, the artist's name and, of course, the name of your stylish sheep. At the conclusion of the event, you will have the choice to give your sheep a home or to donate it to the Ewe Revue Closing Party where we will auction members of the flock, with proceeds benefiting local charities. Additional sponsorship opportunities are available for $5,000 and $10,000, and each include fiberglass sheep options.

Why Sheep?

Mainstay public art events like the Ewe Revue have seen consistent growth in Michigan. Cities that have found success with this type of event have built the event around an animal that served as a pivotal part in their history. So why sheep? Rochester has a very rich sheep history. The Western Knitting Mill, when in its prime, was one of the largest producers of woolen goods in the world. Farmers came from across the county to have their sheep's wool processed at the Mill.

But Hollywood Sheep? Ewe must be kidding!

The Ewe Revue 2 is a "sequel" to the original event. Businesses sponsoring sheep for the 2001 event saw an average sales increase of 25%. The 2012 event will take place during downtown Rochester's "Main Street Makeover," a multi-million dollar redesign and reconstruction of Main Street. So what's more Hollywood and glamorous than a fabulous new ewe?!
